FINANCIAL INFORMATION 2016
Attention and Learning Clinic

Because the success of psychotherapy partly depends on the clarity of the relationship between client/parent and therapist, it is important that you understand the financial agreement before beginning therapy.

Although the Attention and Learning Clinic makes every effort to ensure that your insurance benefits are fully utilized; you as the client or responsible party are responsible for payment. The party responsible for payment must sign the therapy agreement before the first session begins. If we are in-network for your insurance coverage, we will file insurance claim forms. Co-payments and services not covered by insurance are required at the time of the session. We also ask for coinsurance and deductible amounts (which insurance does not cover) at the time of the session. If Dr. Volweider is out-of-network for your insurance plan, we expect payment in full at the time of the session. We will give you a super bill to send to your insurance so you may be reimbursed by them. We take MasterCard, Visa, Discover, and American Express cards, as well as personal checks. We strongly urge you to contact your insurance company to determine what your cost-share of our services will be and to find out if there are any requirements (such as pre-certifications and referrals from your family physician) to get the most out of your coverage. You can ask about the specific codes listed below.

Most insurance routinely pays a portion of the diagnostic evaluation and psychotherapy. Most insurance will not cover therapy without the client present. In this case, if the client is not present for the session, the parent or guardian will be responsible for full payment of the session.

*If Dr. Volweider is in-network for your insurance plan, rate adjustments are made according to the contract with your insurance. We do not have a sliding scale or rate adjustments when Dr. Volweider is out-of-network for your insurance plan.

When patient responsibility is not clear at the time of the session, we will bill you after receiving the remittance advice from your insurer. Total payment for the “patient responsibility” is due within 10 days from the postmark date from our office.
